Fujitsu General America Names Kal Osman, Director of Product Management

Kal Osman is appointed to the position of Director of Product Management by Fujitsu General America. Previously, Osman served for several years as the manufacturer's Commercial Product Manager. Osman has more than 20 years of experience in the HVAC industry.

Osman has a Bachelor's Degree in engineering. His experience includes product engineering development, product management, marketing and sales management.

Through the years, Osman's experience has included central HVAC system controls with BMS, Internet communication, smart valves, a variety of temperature, pressure and flow sensors, and hydronic equipment and system design.

Previous to his work for Fujitsu General, Osman served at Belimo where he enhanced the performance and front-end analysis of several innovative products.

"Kal brings many unique skills, experience and passion to his work for Fujitsu," said Matt Peterson, President and COO of Fujitsu General America. "Without question, in his new role here he will help us improve our brands and sales."
